

WILL TAKE YEARS TO REPAIR EVERY DAMAGE IN PARIS

City is Panic Stricken and Cold, Facing Worst Day of All.

Europe Suffers Loss of Property and Life.

HIGH DEER KILLED, WILHELM:

Paris, Jan. 27.—The thermometer is below freezing and the Seine is still rising. Paris awoke today to what may be the most terrible day of her history since the war broke out. For once Paris is sobered. Her gay mood has departed. Fear is plainly written on the faces of all. Engineers may today that if the waters subside immediately, it will take two years to repair the damage alone.

Public halls, churches and school buildings and even such magnificent structures as the Pantheon are being converted into refuges for the poor. Through the co-operation of the police, soldiers and Red Cross societies thousands of destitute are kept from starvation. Never before has such a depressing spectacle been witnessed as the almost constant procession to Paris of unfortunates from flooded environs. Thousands are coming for food, shelter and medical attention. Scarcely clad women with babies in their arms, aged men pulling rickety carts, containing household effects, cripples, carried on litters or riding in improvised carts, drawn by men, crying children and half crazed men make up the sad procession.

Police and soldiers are literally driving hundreds from their homes in the inundated sections to prevent them being crushed to death in the collapse of their homes. Scores of houses already have tumbled in.

The flood loss in Paris alone will reach $200,000,000, according to the estimate made by government officials. The loss is almost as great as has been sustained in other parts of France. The total loss, it is believed, will reach the staggering total of half a billion dollars.

Firemen gave a wonderful exhibition of bravery today during a small fire in the building of the minister of public works, due to the destroying of the electric accumulators by the flood. They were forced to stand waist deep in water, which was covered with a slight coating of ice, and successfully extinguished the fire.

Food prices are still rising and it is possible the government will be forced to interfere soon, as the poorer classes are hardly able to buy enough for sustenance.

Kaiser's Birthday.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—Germany is one vast field of flags today in honor of the Kaiser's 51st birthday anniversary. All state schools are closed. Business is suspended, services of thanksgiving are held in many churches. Scores of prominent Germans and members of foreign embassies called at the palace to express congratulations. There will be a state banquet tonight.

Terrible Situation.

London, Jan. 27.—Advisers today from European reports show that fully 200 vessels, mostly small fishing craft, were lost in the storm the last 48 hours. The loss of life is sinking is 160. Italy, Spain, Germany and Scandinavian countries report tremendous loss of property and life. The situation is the most appalling in Europe in many years.

Home Threatened.

At Home the Tiber threatens to inundate the city. The river has already overflowed many miles of territory and is causing wave swept. Venice proved without foundation, but the city suffered heavily from the storm many buildings being destroyed.

The interior of Spain is practically cut off from outside communication and the extent of damage cannot be ascertained.

Greek Cabinet Designs.

Athens, Jan. 27.—The cabinet today notified King George of its decision to resign. The king is forced to face many serious problems single-handed. It is freely predicted the situation will cause his early abdication.

Socialists Riot.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—When the police attempted to break up a Socialist demonstration at Brunswick today a riot followed and 27 persons were seriously wounded. There were many arrests.

Suspicion That Insurance Agent Insured Bad Risks For Small Sums Leads to Autopsy in Louisville

Two Men in Graves County Arrested on the Charge of Burning Barn—Beach Hargis Loses—Fire at Kelly.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 27. (Special.)—The body of Walter Rider, a teamster of this city who died early in January, was examined today and an autopsy will be held to determine his physical condition prior to his death. Rider carried a life insurance policy for $10,000 with the Commercial and Merchants' Insurance company, of Indiana, and that company, believing itself a victim of several frauds carried on by some Louisville agents, are making investigations. Policies, entailing between $75,000 and $100,000 have been found with risk of this kind and the company is preparing to prosecute. Some agent here is believed to have insured people in poor physical condition for small premiums and collected the money at their death.

Kelly Burned.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Jan. 27. (Special.)—The little town of Kelly, in Christian county near here, suffered a loss of $7,000 by fire last night.

Republican Ousted.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 27. (Special.)—In the contest of R. C. Hill against Dr. Evans from the First district, the house today announced Evans, who is a Republican, and put in Hill, a Democrat.

Hearing Denied.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 27. (Special.)—The appellate court denied a rehearing in the Beach Hargis case and the Hurley tobacco receivership case.

A Sensational Charge.

Mayfield, Ky., Jan. 27. (Special.)—Constable James Boyd, of Water Valley, arrested Ed Foss and his son, James Foss, this morning on the charge of burning a barn of Walter Urey, containing 125 barrels of corn. They were brought to Mayfield and placed in jail this morning, pending bond. The examining trial has been set for Saturday.

Funeral of Mr. Leonard.

Mr. H. M. Welkel left today at noon for Evansville, where he was called to attend the funeral and burial of a friend Mr. Ed Leonard, who died yesterday. Mr. Leonard was a brother-in-law of Mr. Gus Reitz, of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Reitz went to Evansville. The funeral and burial will take place tomorrow. Mr. Leonard was a bookkeeper at the West National bank, and a popular man.

New York World Case Dismissed.

New York, Jan. 27.—The federal government's prosecution of the publishers of the New York World was stopped by the federal court here, Judge Hough, in the United States circuit court, quashing the indictment against the Press Publishing company, publishers of the World, for alleged libel in connection with publications concerning the Panama canal purchase. The indictment was thrown out on the ground of lack of jurisdiction of the court and for other reasons, which Judge Hough announced would be stated in a memorandum to be filed later.

TOBACCO BUYERS [MAY SUB FARMERS]

On account of the price of tobacco going up since Christmas local buyers are complaining that tobacco, bought before Christmas for later deliveries, is being resold, and it is said several suits will be brought. Tobacco has gone up about $1 around since the first, and is bringing $7.50 to $8.25.

thousand French residents of New Orleans today put in circulation a subscription list to raise a fund for the relief of flood sufferers in France. It is expected that at least $100,000 will be raised. The movement is under the auspices of the society of July 11. Pretty French girls with subscription lists today invaded the hotels, where the Mardi Gras tourists are stopping, asking for donations.

On the night of February 2, the French Opera company will give a benefit performance for the flood sufferers. Many persons here, who have relatives in Paris, received cablegrams today. One said: "Our beautiful city is in ruins." Another said: "Paris is paying the penalty."

SO HE DIED.

Monroe, La., Jan. 27.—"I've got so many children that all the meat boycotts from now back to Adam couldn't save me from the poor house," declared Will Skinner, 52 years old, to a crowd in a saloon here shortly after midnight this morning. When friends tried to interfere Skinner shot himself through the heart and died instantly. Skinner was father of 19 children, the oldest of whom is under 12. He was once a wealthy planter, but lost his money in market speculation.

TOWN IS BURNING HELP IS RUSHING

BAKER CITY, OREGON, HAS SUFFERED LOSS OF $200,000 DAMAGES ALREADY.

Baker City, Ore., Jan. 27.—Fire is threatening to destroy the business section of Baker City. It already has done damage of more than $200,000 and is spreading rapidly. The fire department appears unable to check the flames and hundreds of citizens are assisting them. Messages have been sent to surrounding towns, requesting aid and fire apparatus is being rushed on special trains. This city has a population of 10,000 and the business section comprised some fine buildings. It is feared the blaze will spread to the best residence district, which immediately adjoins the business district.

Suit for Damages.

Suit for $2,000 damages was filed today in circuit court by Herman Smedley against the Paducah Traction company. Last summer he alleged he was a passenger of a Madison street car, when he notified the conductor he wished to get off. Before he stepped to the ground he saw the power was applied suddenly, and he was thrown violently to the ground, fracturing his collarbone.

FOUR MILLIONS FOR THE OHIO RIVER

Washington, Jan. 27. (Special.)—$4,000,000 for the Ohio river is included in the river and harbor bill.

ARCADIA VOTES NEXT SATURDAY

GRADED SCHOOL QUESTION WILL BE SETTLED BY THE CITIZENS.

Next Saturday the citizens residing near Arcadia will vote on the proposition to establish a graded school in the district. There is every assurance that the graded school will be established, as the majority of the property owners have expressed themselves as willing to stand the extra tax. Each voter will cast his ballot for five school trustees at the first election, and the trustees receiving the highest vote will serve the long term.

BOOTLEGGING CHARGE AGAINST YOUNG MEN

On the charge of bootlegging, B. E. Croker and W. H. Dickerson, two prominent young men of Bardwell, were brought to the city today by Elwood Neal, deputy United States marshal. At their examining trial, held before W. A. Gardner, United States commissioner, Dickerson was dismissed, but Croker was held over to the federal grand jury. He executed bond and was released. Both are young men and many prominent citizens signed a petition, asking that they be released.

DRUGGISTS MAY BE COMPELLED TO PAY TWO HUNDRED

State Revenue Agent Believes Quart License is Same as Retail License.

William Husbands Writes to State Auditor.

SMEDELEY CASE IS AFFIRMED

If the investigations of State Revenue Agent William Husbands bring results, several liquor dealers in Paducah, including druggists, will be forced to pay $200 a year to the state instead of $100. It has all come about over the misinterpretation of the license law as applied to retail liquor houses that sell liquor in quantities not less than a quart and not more than five gallons.

Revenue agents all over the state have suddenly awakened to this fact and in the discovery it has been found that thousands of dollars in revenue are due the state.

Liquor houses pay a state merchants' license of $100 per annum, which is collected immediately after they open for business. In Lexington, Ky., C. W. Foushee, a revenue agent, has discovered that these houses come under the provision of retail liquor houses and should pay $200 a year.

Mr. Husbands began an investigation this week and is delving among the leaves of his law books. In the meantime he is awaiting a reply from State Auditor James, at Frankfort, to whom he has written in regard to the matter. Other revenue agents throughout the state are netting accordingly and it is believed that the findings will be approved by the auditor and attorney general.

In Paducah there are between ten and twelve dealers who have been paying $100 per year and in case the law is found to be entirely different the dealers will be compelled to pay in $100 more at once. These firms have been paying what is known as a merchants' license, but Mr. Husbands believes they should come under the head of retail dealers, as a wholesale license is considered over five gallons. Most of these dealers here are druggists. None of them has a city license.

Smedley Loses His Suit.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 27. (Special.)—In affirming the case of the commonwealth against Hiram Smedley, county clerk, and his surety, the Title Guaranty and Surety company of Scranton, Penn., from the McCracken circuit court, the appellate court upholds section 4242 of the Kentucky statutes, providing that the county clerk, who fails to perform his duties, is liable on his official bond with 20 per cent damages there on, and section 4236, allowing the revenue agent an additional 20 per cent for collecting the money.

Irvine Suit.

The suit was brought in circuit court by W. H. Husbands, revenue agent for McCracken county, against Smedley and his surety to recover $418. It is alleged, that was misappropriated. He was given judgment for the sum including 10 per cent interest, 20 per cent damages and 20 per cent on the whole amount as a fee for the revenue agent for making the collection. The bonding company, the total, $630, and took an appeal.

The county compromised with the bonding company, and since has brought suit.

WOMEN PETITION CHICAGO'S MAYOR

TWO THOUSAND MARCH TO CITY HALL AGAINST THE "RED LIGHT."

Chicago, Jan. 27.—More than 2,000 women gathered this noon prepared to march this afternoon upon the city hall and present to Mayor Russell a petition to close the "red light" district. The petition is drawn up in accordance with a resolution passed at the recent anti-vice meeting of the Cook county W. C. T. U. Mrs. Emeline Hill, who drew up the petition, refused to make public its contents, but says it embodies new and effective statistics, concerning corrupt influence of the district upon the youths of Chicago.

Mr. M. E. Gilchrist went to Trenton, Tenn., today on business.

Representative Eugene Graves Says He Will Vote as He Pleases in County Unit Committee Meeting

Religion and Morals Committee of Lower House Enjoys Lively Session—Proceedings of Legislature.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 27. (Special.)—There was a spirited fight last night before the religion and morals committee of the house over the county unit. Ex-Mayor Woods, of Richmond, declared that Democrats who failed to vote for the bill were deserting the party pledges. Eugene Graves, of McCracken, and Carter of Anderson, denied this, and said they would do as they pleased. Graves said he intended to vote as he pleased.

A Juley Motion.
The senate passed the bill, increasing from $5,000 to $7,000, the annual pay that can be allowed officials in counties having cities of the second class.

After Beef Trust.
In the house of representatives Withers introduced a bill to prevent the sale of fresh meat 72 hours after it is killed. This is to get after the trust, which holds meat in cold storage until the price is raised.

Representative Parlin introduced a bill to force all lobbyists to register. Representative Turner introduced a bill to increase the tax on straight whiskey to $2 a gallon and on rectified to $5 a gallon.

McVaters offered a bill providing for separate compartments for white and negroes in street cars in all cities in the state.

The Hines bill, providing for the separation of white and colored prisoners in the houses of reform, passed the house.

The senate passed a bill making the Frankfort penitentiary a reformatory, and applying part of the earnings of convicts to their families. Favorable report was made in the senate on the Combs bill for the state tuberculosis sanitarium.

The Linn bill allowing regular judges to name special judges before, and providing $1,200 a year for their payment, passed the senate.

In the Senate.
New bills were offered in the senate as follows:

L. W. Arnett—Authorizing governor to appoint a state boiler inspector, salary of $1,800, the inspector to appoint three assistants at $1,200 and expenses each.

Bosworth—Increasing pay of assistant mine inspector from $1,200 to $1,800.

Bortman—to protect fox squirrels.
Burnam—to better secure assessment of property and prevent duplication.

Burman—Reapportioning to funds.

BAPTISTS WILL CLOSE BIBLE INSTITUTE TOMORROW.

Successful Series of Meetings Being Brought to Close—Big Mass Meeting.

Tomorrow will be the last day of the Baptist Bible Institute. Each service has been attended by large congregations, and tomorrow still larger audiences are expected, while Friday evening a mass meeting of the lecturers will be held at the First Baptist church, instead of conducting services at all of the Baptist churches in the city.

This morning Dr. G. M. Savage delivered an instructive lecture on "Christian Education," and the Rev. J. D. Adcock gave an exposition, "The New Testament Idea of Death" this afternoon, and was followed by the Rev. W. R. Hill who lectured on "The Millennial Dawn." The Rev. M. S. Staley will preach at the First Baptist church. Speakers at other churches will be: the Rev. J. W. Brunner, Second Baptist church; the Rev. T. B. Rouse, East Baptist church; the Rev. G. M. Savage at the North Twelfth street church. For the closing day a strong program is promised. The morning hour will be devoted solely to a lecture by the Rev. J. W. Porter on "What the World Owes to the Baptists." In the afternoon the Rev. V. I. Masters, of Atlanta, Ga., will speak on "Bird's Eye View of Our Mission Fields." In the evening Dr. Masters will lecture, and illustrated slides will be used, while Dr. S. P. Porter will speak also.

RUNG ALARM.

Mistaking a fire alarm box for a letter box, an unknown negro tried to mail a letter in box, No. 31, at Second street and Kentucky avenue yesterday afternoon. He fumbled around the box, but failed to find a place through which to drop the letter. The key to the box was in place and the curious negro opened the front of the fire box. Then he failed to find a suitable place, and pulled down a lever to open the next door. The alarm was answered by the Central station firemen. When the fire ladders arrived the negro had become frightened and departed without mailing his letter.

ANOTHER BATTLE NOW IN PROGRESS

REPORT OF CAPITAL IN TUR-MOIL LIKE THAT UNDER ZELAYA.

Bluefields, Jan. 27.—Dispatches from Managua today to provisional Secretary Diaz say Estrada's army already has begun its second attack on the administration forces, which will end either in the provisional army's defeat or its advance to Managua, the capital. Chamorro and Viquez are commanding rival forces numerically about equal, as the administration has been reinforced. Reports say Managua is in a state of revolt and almost as bad as under the Zelaya regime. Madrid is going to every extreme.

At dawn Chamorro ordered an advance. Skirmishes were reported. Viquez men are making a stand. The battle is being fought on a wide level field, neither army having the advantage of position. The battlefield is about three days' march from Managua.

DR. RICHMOND LECTURES BEFORE MCCRACKEN COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY.

The Medical and Surgical Society Will Meet Tonight With Dr. Reynolds.

An interesting meeting of the McCracken County Medical society was held at the Woman's club last night when the membership was treated with an excellent lecture by Dr. W. W. Richmond, of Clinton, Ky., who is counselor for the First district. Dr. Richmond spoke on the subject of "Preventable Diseases" and showed how tuberculosis could be checked by proper observance of the rules of health and cleanliness. Drs. W. J. Bass and C. P. Burnett read papers relative to the diseases of the pelvic organs. The meeting was largely attended.

Surgeons to Meet.

Tonight the regular meeting of the Paducah Medical and Surgical society will be held at the office of Dr. H. G. Reynolds, 119 1/2 South Sixth street. The annual election of officers will not be held until the first meeting in March.

FIVE CREAL SPRINGS BOYS JOIN THE ARMY

Creal Springs, Ill., has suddenly leaped into prominence as the domicile of raw recruits, and as a result five young men of that town, eager to become soldiers, are being held here at the local recruiting station on probation. Sergeant Blake received a letter this morning from Monroe Parker, of Creal Springs, who said that he had a vision or some kind of a premonition that he was destined for the army. This vision came last summer, according to the letter, and since that time the young man has been summing up courage to write. He gave his address and told Sergeant Blake to notify him if he wanted any more men. Sergeant Blake, anxious to have a look at the young man, forwarded him a letter today, telling him to come and stand the examination. Sergeant Joseph Kresky returned home from Princeton last night. He was unaccompanied, but says there is some material there.

GLAVIS ON STAND MAKES CHARGE IN BALLINGER CASE

Congressional Committee Gets Down to Work Investigating.

Accusations Against Secretary of Interior.

THE PROCEEDINGS IN DETAIL.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The Ballinger-Pinchot congressional inquiry was resumed today.

Glavis' leading attorney, Mr. Brandeis, of Boston, said he would not occupy the time of the committee with a preliminary statement as to what would be shown. The witness requested that his testimony be taken through an examination by his counsel. He then was sworn and Senator Nelson asked a few preliminary questions.

"What, if anything, do you claim to have been able in the administration of the public lands?" was the question the chairman shot at the witness.

Glavis said he could not answer the question briefly.

"Go ahead and tell it all in your own way," directed Senator Nelson.

Glavis commenced by going back to the time when he began work as a field agent of the land office on the Wilson Coal company cases in Lewis county, Washington, in 1901 and 1902. Mr. Ballinger, he said, was attorney for the Wilson company.

Glavis said he referred to these cases as tending up to the Alaska claims which formed the principal subject of the inquiry.

He declared that Ballinger's name did not appear in the court records of the Washington coal claims, and that he did not appear in court at any time. The witness said Mr. Ballinger had no government connection at the time of this appearance.

Agreement Unlawful.

Representative Olmstead, of Pennsylvania, questioned the witness for a few minutes. Glavis said he resided now at White Salmon, Wash., and was in the fruit growing business.

Questioned by his own counsel, Glavis charged that when the escrow agreement in the Wilson case was drawn up by Ballinger it was an unlawful proceeding.

Glavis said the information came to him as the outcries had no right at the time to enter into this agreement. The agreement, however, was never signed.

A stipulation had been entered into by the government counsel in the Wilson cases and the attorney for the claimants, whereby the name of Mr. Ballinger was not to appear. The witness said the records would bear him out. The counsel for the government was P. C. Sullivan and

Law Firm of Reed & Reed.

A new law firm has been formed by Cecil Reed, master commissioner, and his brother, Rorock Reed. The firm will be located at 127 South Fourth street. Attorney Cecil Reed has been in partnership with Attorney Campbell Flournoy, but the firm was dissolved January 1.

Suits Filed in Circuit Court.

Tomorrow will be the last day for filing suits in circuit court for the February term of civil court. A number of suits were filed today and many more are expected tomorrow. J. W. Hughes filed suit against H. S. Hayden for $125 alleged due as a balance on two notes.

Ed Jones filed suit against Ella Jones for divorce, alleging abandonment.

John B. Steel filed suit against Charles L. Perkins and W. J. Riney for $150 alleged due as a balance on two notes.

The Calvert bank filed suit against the Hardy Buggy company, M. Stephens, alias B. M. Stephenson, and W. W. English for $185.05 alleged due on a note.

E. W. Whittemore, guardian for Emily Rivers, filed suit against Emily B. Rivers for the sale of property.

E. W. Whittemore, guardian for Harold Milburn Rivers, filed suit against Harold Milburn Rivers for a sale of property.

J. L. Cooper filed suit against R. B. Anderson for $200 and for the sale of property on Ashbrook avenue and in the county.

Hilban Rivers filed suit against B. J. Sherrell, his former guardian, to require him to surcharge his settlement.

CIRCULARS SENT TO HIGH SCHOOL

URGING THEM TO SELECT THEIR SPEAKERS AT ONCE.

Paducah Local Contest Will Be Held
Probably February 12.

BASKETBALL GAME ON TONIGHT

All of the high schools in the Western Kentucky Oratorical league have been sent circular letters, asking the students to select their representative for the contest, which will be held in Paducah February 25. As soon as selected, the student is expected to send his subject to the Paducah officers of the league, so that the program may be arranged. The contest will be held in the Kentucky theater. The prospects are that the interest will be great, and a crowded house seems assured for the orators.

The primary contest for the high school is unsettled yet, but it is probable that it will be held February 12. At present the contestants are busy arranging their orations. It will be difficult to pick the winner as several good speakers have announced their intention of competing. Among those who will enter the contest are: Misses Ruth McClesney, Ruby McDonald, Virginia Warren and Messrs. Marvin Sills, David Humphreys, Pitman Harth, and Charles Endris.

Basket Ball.

Tonight two exhibition games will be played between the four high school basketball teams. The two girls teams will compete. Last week the game ended in a tie, and an interesting game is expected. The boys have two fast teams, and a game replete with team work is expected.

The girls will line up: First team—Mary Jones, center; Martha Cope and Kathleen Garrow, forwards; Ruth McClesney and Grace Stewart, guards. Second team—Clara Stewart, center; Henrietta Kahn and Ira Jones, forwards; Hannah Corbett and Ida Lea Stenger, guards.

The boys will line up: First team—King, center; Browning and Ogilvie forwards; Sills and Endris, guards. Second team—Yarbro, center; Elliott and Hughes, forwards; Harth and Gardner, guards.

Will Senator Linn Explain?

"I shall also favor extending the provisions of the county unit bill to each county in the state alike without exception."

That is what Conn Linn said in his letter to Dr. Adams, when he was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for senator in 1907, and that is what he told the people of his district, when he was seeking their support. Upon that assurance they nominated and elected him, and he holds to today his seat in the senate of Kentucky by reason of that promise he made to his people. What has changed him in his position upon this measure? What reason can he give, if he violates that promise? It is the same question now as it was then. He made a solemn contract with the people of his district that if they would elect him, he would support this bill. The floor of the senate is open to him, upon a question of personal privilege, to tell why he has changed. Silence is no answer; it is a confession. Two published letters that he wrote to Dr. Adams demands some explanation from him. There is no excuse whatever for his remaining silent.—Kentucky State Journal.

Do You Ever Examine the Companies Behind Your Fire Insurance Companies?

You may not believe it, but it is not an uncommon thing for some one to suffer a fire loss and when they come to adjust it find the company carrying their insurance is a weak proposition and only able to pay about half the loss. You fully investigate a bank before you deposit money with it, and it behooves you to fully investigate your insurance companies.

We court investigations of our companies, and guarantee the best line of strong financial institutions you will find anywhere.

"Three Twins" delighted an immense audience at the Kentucky theater last night, but we would advise the management to tuck Tom Whiffen in bed every night with a hot water bottle. We have to think what would happen to that show if Mr. Whiffen should take the grip. No doubt many of the spectators came away believing they had been laughing at "Three Twins" but they were laughing at Tom Whiffen. He is the alpha and the omega, the sine qua non, the whole works—ah! Now we have it—he is the second hand; without him the minutes drag during the performance. No cleaner cut comedian has appeared here in musical comedy for many a day, and singing, dancing, talking or in pantomime, he is a delight to one, who loves to laugh.

Back of him he has one of the highest, best looking, best singing, best dancing choruses that has visited Paducah this season, and when the stage director has the bunch on the stage, he knows how to handle an ensemble scene with rare effect.

"The Newswoman and Their Baby," the big music show that comes to the Kentucky on Monday evening, January 21, carry their special trail of three coaches. A heavy advance sale indicates a most successful engagement.

John W. Vogel's big city minstrels, hosts of a silver cornet band of 21 pieces, under the direction of Jos. L. Fleming and a double symphony orchestra of 15, and the Louisiana Glee club supply the vocal numbers. John W. Vogel's big city minstrels will appear at the Kentucky on an early date and should be witnessed by a crowded house.

"Graustark," the play that attracted so much attention last season in New York and Chicago, will be one of the early offerings at the Kentucky February 2.

"The Girl Question" begins its engagement for one night at the Kentucky January 27. There are thirty chorus girls in this production, the majority of whom make a complete change of costumes four times in each scene. There is no doubt that this engagement will prove as popular as the one played here last season, when unquestionably the show made a decided hit leaving a trail of remembrance behind it, not only in this city, but in all other cities between New York and San Francisco.

WHEN DINNER COMES

One Ought to Have a Good Appetite.

A good appetite is the best sauce. It goes a long way toward helping in the digestive process, and that is absolutely essential to health and strength.

Many persons have found that Grape-Nuts food is not only nourishing but is a great appetizer. Even children like the taste of it and grow strong and rosy from its use. It is especially the food to make a weak stomach strong and create an appetite for dinner.

"I am 57 years old," writes a Tenn. grandmother, "and have had a weak stomach from childhood. By great care as to my diet I enjoyed a reasonable degree of health, but never found anything to equal Grape-Nuts as a standby."

"When I have no appetite for breakfast and just eat to keep up my strength, I take 4 teaspoonsful of Grape-Nuts with good rich milk, and when dinner comes I am hungry. While if I go without any breakfast I never feel like eating dinner. Grape-Nuts for breakfast seems to make a healthy appetite for dinner."

"My little 13-months-old grandson had been very sick with stomach trouble during the past summer, and finally we put him on Grape-Nuts. Now he is growing plump and well. When asked if he wants his nurse or Grape-Nuts, he brightens up and points to the cupboard. He was no trouble to wean at all—thanks to Grape-Nuts." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

The show this season, in every particular, is infinitely better than last, being better staged and the chorus prettier and more finished. The specialties and singing go with that dash and vim that always finds a ready reception and response on the part of the audience.

"Cab 23," the "tabloid" comedy which is to be presented at the Kentucky Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee, is not a literary effort, but is, as its advertising announces, "a vehicle built for laughing purposes only," and it is full of scenes and situations that are sidesplitting. Those who wish to enjoy an hour's real hearty enjoyment at a bargain price should not fail to witness this attraction. Two performances are given each evening beside the Saturday matinee, all at ten cents admission price.

WASHINGTON NEWS

Henry M. Hoyt, and the proceedings against the Wilson claimants are still pending. Glavis claimed that Ballinger's participation amounted to a conspiracy in a fraudulent claim against the government.

Glavis next turned to the Alaska coal fields and described in detail the location and extent of the Cunningham claims.

President Ballinger was not present when the hearing began. After Glavis had proceeded for half an hour or more, going into the details of the Cunningham claims, Representative Denby, of Michigan, interrupted him.

Attorney Speaks for Glavis. Representative James, of Kentucky, said he thought the witness should be allowed to proceed in his own way.

Representative Graham, of Illinois, (Democrat) suggested that Glavis' counsel should make the statement. This course was finally decided upon and Attorney Brandeis arose to address the committee.

Mr. Brandeis said that Glavis' attention was first called to the fraudulent coal land claims when Glavis was in Seattle as chief of field division in 1907. Ballinger at that time was commissioner of the land office. Glavis heard that a number of prominent people in Seattle were interested in the fraudulent claims in Alaska. Glavis met Special Agent Jones, of the land office, who was on his way to Alaska to investigate the Alaska claims.

When Jones after a preliminary investigation, returned to Seattle in August, 1907, he was directed to report at once to Commissioner Ballinger, who was in Seattle at the time.

"We claim," said Mr. Brandeis, "that Commissioner Ballinger thereupon modified the orders which had been given to Jones by Assistant Commissioner Bennett to make a full and thorough investigation, making one or two affidavits in each group, instead of fully covering the matter. Mr. Ballinger also stated that if patents could not be granted on the lands as matters stood, relief would be required of congress."

Jones had been sent to Alaska because Special Agent Love, of the department, who had jurisdiction, lived in Alaska, and was more or less closely identified with the claimants. Love, however, aided Jones in the work.

Ballinger Ignored Requests. "There were repeated conferences in Seattle between Jones and Ballinger, and various directions were given by Ballinger, both to Jones and to Love. There was a full discussion as to the rights, legality and fraud of the Alaska claims."

Mr. Brandeis then went more briefly into the Glavis charges against Secretary Ballinger as presented to President Taft, and acted upon by the president. The speaker said that recommendations by Glavis and Jones in the Alaska case were not acted upon by Commissioner Ballinger.

Glavis sought an affidavit from a man named Davis. The latter said that he had talked the matter over with Ballinger and had been told not to make any statement; to wait until charges had been filed by the government. After this, Glavis came to Washington and argued with the land office as to the danger of a scandal in the Alaska case. He was then directed to proceed with a full investigation. Soon after he left Washington, however, ex-Gov. Miles C. Moore came here to consult Mr. Ballinger, to see whether the claims could not be hurried to patent.

Senator Nelson charged the attorney with withholding the fact that Moore was referred to the assistant secretary of the interior, as Ballinger had had nothing to do with the claims.

"This having been the case, when he ceased to be commissioner he took the position as counsel for some of these claimants."

Senator Sutherland, of Utah, interrupted: "You don't claim that Ballinger acted corruptly as commissioner, but that he made improper use of the information which he had obtained?" "That is not all," replied the attorney. "The fact that he acted at all with reference to the continuance of the contest was not consistent with the highest conduct as an officer of the government."

"Then you claim he acted corruptly, or improperly?" asked Senator Sutherland.

"Yes—improperly; that he acted without due regard to the interest of the government while commissioner. Also that he acted improperly afterward in taking employment from the claimants who had been before him as commissioner.

"We claim that Ballinger's action as commissioner was improper in his failure to thoroughly investigate the Alaska claims."

"That he acted improperly in ordering these claims to patent, and we charge that they were on the road to patent with undue haste, when Glavis intervened and saved them."

Journal Evidenced Fraud.

"I am stating what is distinctly a fact, and about which there can be no question," said Mr. Brandeis. "In January, 1908, Glavis heard that Ballinger had ordered the Cunningham claims to 'clear testing' for patent. He at once telegraphed, asking that this action be suspended, and came on to Washington. He said he had just secured possession of the Cunningham journal, which bore conclusive evidence of fraud. He met ex-Governor Moore and Clarence Cunningham here and was told by Moore that but for Glavis' action the land would have gone to patent. Glavis also discovered that contrary to all practice, Cunningham and other claimants had received information as to what the field agents of the department were doing. Cunningham said he had copies of all the papers on file and there was nothing in them to prevent the lands going to patent."

Mr. Brandeis claimed that when Glavis finally was directed to make a full and thorough examination, he was given only two months, and said it would be impossible to have prepared the government's case against the claimants in that time.

The attorney again was interrupted and asked to outline the specific charges against Secretary Ballinger. "It appears, first," said Mr. Brandeis, "that Mr. Ballinger, while commissioner of the land office, took an active part in the controversy and investigation which arose as to the validity of the Alaska coal lands, and by ordering some of the claims to patent, acquired knowledge of importance. That he acted improperly in allowing the Alaska claimants to see all the papers on file in the department. Cunningham said, in a letter, on file at Juneau, that Commissioner Ballinger gave him the papers."

Ballinger Denies Charges. "You are aware," interrupted Representative Olmstead, "that Secretary Ballinger specifically denies all this?" "Yes," replied Mr. Brandeis, "and we will ask you to consider all our statements in connection with this denial."

"Then," interrupted Mr. Madison, "you do claim Mr. Ballinger acted corruptly?"

Mr. Brandeis launched into a reply with some show of feeling. "I have not used the word corruptly," he exclaimed in a high pitched voice. "I have desired to bring the facts before the committee. I deem it a matter of great solemnity and that no charge of corruption should be made. It is a matter for the committee to determine whether the great trust of holding this land for the benefit of the people and for future generations is in safe hands. We ask you to consider the charges of fact. It is for you gentlemen to determine what the safety and the honor of the country demands."

In connection with the Wilson Coal company case, Mr. Brandeis charged that Ballinger acted as counsel—these his name did not appear in a case which involved perjury on the part of the claimants and a fraud upon the land laws.

Mr. Brandeis promised that the investigation now on would bring out more than was contained in the charges filed by Mr. Glavis with the president; that there are facts, statements and documents not then in his possession.

This ended the attorney's statement, and he resumed the examination of the witness.

Glavis Again on Stand.

Glavis proceeded to tell of his conversation with young Charles Davis, of Seattle, when Davis said he would not make an affidavit as he had been advised against it by Judge Ballinger.

"Do you know any reason why Davis should not come here and testify first hand?" asked a member of the committee.

"No, sir," replied Glavis, "except that he is one of the claimants."

This called out a laugh. Glavis said that Davis made this statement to him the first time that he met him.

During the discussion of the testimony of young Davis an interesting and perhaps significant colloquy occurred between Senator Nelson and Representative Graham, one of the Democratic members. Senator Nelson sought to draw from the witness and his counsel the fact that they had no knowledge that Mr. Ballinger personally received some letters addressed to the commissioner of the land office and that this mail may have gone to other persons.

Representative Graham interrupted with the remark, that he thought the burden of proof would be upon Mr. Ballinger in this connection. He thought that in an important matter like this the commissioner of the land office ought to know all that was going on, or to issue orders that he should know what was going on.

"The burden is on him," concluded

Representative Graham "to show that he did not know what was in these letters."

Senator Nelson in announcing an adjournment at 5:05 p. m., endeavored to get permission to resume the sitting today, but several members of the committee said that they had other duties, and the resumption of the inquiry was set for 10 a. m. Friday, when Glavis will continue his testimony.

Daily Thought.

We sleep, but the loom of life never stops, and the pattern which was weaving when the sun went down is weaving when it comes up in the morning. —H. W. Beecher.

"The Girl Question," "The New Year's Wishes" and "The Three Twins," all within a week, and not a problem play in the lot.

If the law of supply and demand is not responsible for the price of meat, does anyone expect to reduce the price by curtailing the demand?

Dr. D. K. Pearson, of Chicago, tells us that he has discovered "giving is the most exquisite of human delights." We fear that to any man, who waits until he is rich before he gives, it is having it to give that affords the "exquisite delight."

How can we bear to contemplate the shades of our country academy with the elements of agriculture and hints on stock raising? Must we break up the classic continuity of our Greek and Latin courses, that the sons of farmers may study the science of the soil? Weren't pap and grand pap and yet his daddy farmers? And didn't they all manage to grub a living out of the old place? Send a boy to school to learn the relations of soil chemistry to vegetation, to study the culture of cereals, and the problems of marketing produce and live stock? Learn them things on the farm, boys? Send Jim and Bob to the county high school to make lawyers of 'em, merrily—do doctors, or stockmen? Wouldn't it be a boy of mine down to the farm, Noddy? In it, Critics are high, but you have to feed 'em fifty cent corn, and they ain't nothin' in that. Bill's kind 'o slow, and ain't no gk up about him. Better keep Bill on the farm. The other boys 'll need Bill's help when they get up to practice.

COMETS.

Where do they go? We know not, but we do know they have their habits and they appear periodically much like some people. The irregular ones have their habits just as the normal common-place people, who appear regularly like the stars set in the heaven, each in his appointed constellation. It is comprehensible and satisfying that the stars remain in juxtaposition held by a law, of whose inflexibility we are sure, though we do not understand it, just as we feel safe in the social stability of most men.

But a comet swinging astward out of orbit, coming out of the unknown, illimitable space, manifesting phenomena unusual in the heavens of our vision, and passing with its train of attendant circumstances back into that space, quivering our curiosity, but throwing no light on the mystery whose existence its presence only emphasizes, attracts more attention than do the stars we know are always there. Yet that comet is composed of the same material that compose the other stars, obeys the same laws and eventually must pass through the same transformation. Some influence has exaggerated its eccentricity; that is all.

For all these planets and stars are slightly eccentric, each influencing the other, and being influenced by other constellations, also revolving in more or less eccentric orbits. Comets, lacking stability of character, as it were, swing by and through these constellations, influenced first this way and then that, but let us not forget, also exerting an influence, though feeble as compared with the combined influence of grouped constellations.

Here in this little world of ours, did we but know it, we have all the physical elements, spiritual forces, and natural laws and phenomena, that are infinitely reproduced throughout the universe, whose immensity we cannot apprehend. Could we project our vision hundreds of millions of miles into space we might find, what the boy found, who longed to climb the mountain that obstructed his view, and when he did so found other mountains like the one he had ascended still obstructing his view. For had he studied the one he climbed, he would have known all mountains.

THE CITY BUDGET

That the current expenses of the city government would be taken care of in the budget this year, of course, everybody knows. It is to the special projects we turn our attention, and it is difficult to say which causes us most in the proposals of the mayor and the joint finance committee—the increase for the police and firemen, the lifting of half the school debt, (both pet projects of The Evening Sun), the west end fire station, the tuberculosis tent colony or the deposit for the Island creek bridge. They all spell the word P-R-O-G-R-E-S-S in capital letters. It is pleasing, too, to observe that the board of public works, which evinced so great economy last year, was not cut in its appropriation. Indeed, it would become the general council after ordering $13,000 worth of extra work done, to reduce the appropriation, and the finance committee evidently so thought. Nor would it be wise to permit streets once repaved to deteriorate.

We are not dubious about the ability of the departments to get through on the appropriations. We believe that by the exercise of the closest scrutiny they can do it, and that is what the taxpayers demand. If there is an extra $3,000 remaining after providing for the estimated budget and unanticipated expenses, we suggest that the balance of the school debt be lifted.

A JOKER IN THE SCHOOL LAW.
We say frankly we don't like the Second class city school bill as we are informed it is introduced. There is a joker in it, if a thing so palatable could be called by so significant a title. We object to that business manager at $2,000 a year. If we have $2,000 extra to spend on our schools we will divide it among the teachers and superintendent. We favor reducing the school board to five men elected from the city at large, a special election for them and a non-partisan ballot; but it is even more important to defeat that $2,000 business manager proposition than to enact the remainder of the bill. It is much in the same shape as the juvenile court law, which was passed by the most single-minded of reformers; but before it could be passed the $1,200 to $2,400 juvenile officer, appointed by the county judge and paid by the taxpayers of the city, must be tacked on to satisfy the politicians, and all we got was the juvenile officer.

The business manager, if this city had 60,000 school children, we have no doubt, would be a valuable officer, and $2,000 salary a modest stipend; but he would be of no use in Paducah and would relieve the school trustees of none of their responsibilities. Indeed, his salary would only add to their perplexities, and school board elections would be a contest between friends of candidates for the job.

Whether we have a business manager or not, the trustees will be responsible for stretching the abbreviated income of the schools over the necessary expenses, and they will be compelled to scrimp every item of expenditure. It might relieve the superintendent of some trouble, in order that he might devote the time given to them to the strictly administrative problems, but, if we understand the temper of Superintendent Cunniff, he is perfectly willing to jog along, working with the board. If only he can keep as good one as he has now, and revenue sufficient to properly finance his efforts to build up the schools is forthcoming.

We have no objection to making a conditional provision in the law for a business manager, so that if Lexington, Covington or Newport desire an official, whom we would deem a superfluity and an extravagance, it may do so; but we certainly object to saddling $2,000 more expense on our present very much embarrassed schools.

Democracy's Danger.
The Democratic party in its purity stands in Kentucky, as elsewhere, for the people's dearest rights. Democracy, however, has come to be judged, and rightly so, not by what it professes to be, but by what it really is as evidenced by its agents in authority. If those agents, the law-makers and other officeholders, prove recreant the party must, unfortunately, be judged by their acts, for they are supposed to be executing its will, having been selected to do that. That the people of Kentucky are by preference Democrats, there is now small room to doubt. They have shown it too plainly for anyone to gainsay it. True, on occasions they have voted Republicans into the offices, but this was, we believe, merely because the voters had become discouraged with the leadership of men in the Democratic party who seemed oblivious to democratic principles which they supported in a superficial sense, having even in view their own selfish personal ends. Take the election last fall. The sweeping Democratic victory showed a willingness, as yet, an eagerness, on the part of the voters to restore the party to its heritage in the state. This honest purpose on the part of the voters seems to have been misinterpreted by the politicians who were swept into official position by the Democratic landslide. These self-seekers whom the people once more dared to trust the November election meant no more than a return for them to the trough after they had grown a little lean on the stable. Had we enough true patriots among these men now sitting in the legislative halls of our state the victory in last fall's election might be used to so good an effect that in the election next year we could hope to rout out the Republicans from the capitol at Frankfort. But it looks now as if this fond hope of the party is to be shattered by the men who are for the time its spokesmen and its pride to the people.

In the senate of Kentucky today the leaders on the Democratic side are Senators Egan and Combs and their acts will be taken by the people as an earnest of what democracy means in Kentucky. Following the leadership of these men we see a majority of the Democratic members of the senate, not a single western Kentucky senator standing out against them, save Senator Egan, of Paducah, who also has yielded to them in the matter of the county unit bill. What may we expect from this but almost irreparable injury to the party? The people have shown on several occasions in the past 15 years that they are not to be trifled with, and that a state Republican administration is no longer such a bugaboo to them that they will accept any old thing in the place of it. The people are not going to stand for the Egan and Combs type of Democracy nor the Ben Johnson kind, when it comes to look ahead. If the Democratic party is to barter away its respectability and set up a Whiskey hierarchy in the state, then you may depend on it the Republicans have a still longer lease of power in Kentucky. Take this district, as the Mayfield Messenger well says in discussing the votes of Senators Taylor, Egan, Cutler and Linn:

"Notwithstanding at least five to one of the constituents of these four senators are heartily in favor of the county unit bill, yet they are not only against it but are on the side of that element which wants to defeat the bill without letting it come to a vote in the senate or in the open."

"It is passing strange that those gentlemen will oppose a measure that is for the good of the people, and which their constituency so strongly favors. The whiskey power is now laying its plans deep and strong to defeat the Democrats at the next state election and our Democratic senators are fast falling into the trap."

The press of this end of the state, outside of Paducah and Princeton, condemns the votes of these western Kentucky senators, and the press is very close to the people and is in position to know their sentiments.

In calling attention to these things the Gazette has no hope of recalling these public servants to a sense of their obligation to their constituents, for we fear that they are bound hand and foot by the whiskey interests and no longer have a free and untrammelled vote; but we refer to it in order that the people may be awakened to the duty that confronts them. The people elected these men and they are responsible to the world for them, and to the party for any harm they may do it is for the people to arouse themselves if the future holds a remedy for the mistakes of the past.—Clin. ton Gazette.

DEMOCRAT WANTS SHIP SUBSIDY

INDICATION OF DISAPPROVAL OF HUMPHREY'S SUBSIDY BILL.

Father of Measure One of Democrats From Whom Votes Were Expected for Republican Ship Bill.

CLARK OF FLORIDA HAS BILL.

Washington, Jan. 27.—A Democratic ship subsidy measure was introduced in the house by Representative Clark, of Florida, a member of the committee on merchant marine and fisheries, before which committee the administration ship subsidy bill is now pending. Mr. Clark is one of the Democratic members of the latter committee, from whom it was reported the Republicans hoped to receive support for their party measure, but the introduction of Mr. Clark's own bill on the subject is an indication that he does not approve of the bill drafted at the white house and introduced by Representative Humphrey, of Washington but on the contrary has ideas of his own on the subject of subsidizing ocean going vessels.

Mr. Clark's bill provides for an increased tonnage tax of 25 cents per ton on foreign vessels plying between ports of North America Central and certain Southern American ports and others, and a tax of 50 cents per ton on other foreign vessels.

He proposes to set aside the total receipts from this source and appropriate it among American vessels according to the mileage and tonnage. In exchange, these subsidized lines must contract for a 15-year period to carry the mails free of charge as well as transport United States consular and other officials without expense to the government.

One of the fondest desires of millions of women is to have beautiful hair.

This desire can be gratified without the slightest risk, for druggists everywhere, and Gilbert's drug store sell a hair tonic called Parisian Sage for 50 cents, that will turn dull, lifeless, unattractive hair into lustrous and attractive hair in two weeks, or money back.

Put the name on your shopping list right now, and be sure and get the genuine. Every package has the girl with the Auburn hair upon it.

Since its introduction in America, Parisian Sage has won unstinted praise from women of refinement who have learned what a delightful and refreshing hair tonic and dressing Parisian Sage is.

Just because the makers are absolutely certain that Parisian Sage is the only preparation that kills the pernicious dandruff microbes, they are willing to guarantee it to banish dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp, or money back.

the eventful years 1811-1867, contains a stirring account of the memorable achievements in which General Hitchcock played a very conspicuous part.

A huge polar bear embracing a very pretty girl, with a sea lion acting as chaperon and the recently discovered polar bear in the background form the timely features of the cover of the thirty first issue of the book.

A observant opinion is clear, and the February issue is no exception, in the general rule. The number comes with a long and intensely powerful detective story by that versatile genius, Detective Wells. The new book is entitled "The Great Bag" and it is fairly up to the standard of the famous professional by this name. "The One" which has been one of the most successful books of the season.

The February Century opens approximately with a portrait of the late Richard Watson Gilder, for twenty-two years editor of the magazine, remembered from the painting by George H. Brown, and the first feature of the number is Mr. Gilder's last sermon, "Love in the City." The magazine's tribute to Mr. Gilder in editorial poems by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps and Charles T. Towne, and a consideration of his public life, are as follows: "As First," by Francis Edward Woodberry; "As a Man of Letters," by Henry Clay Duke; "His Philanthropic Work," by Louis A. Ross; "His Relation to the Age," by Edwin Bennett; "His Editorial Relations," by his associate editor, Robert Underwood Johnson. There are further tributes of appreciation and regret from President Taft, Francis Hodgson Burnett, John H. Brown, Helen Keller, Hamilton Wright Mabie, Andrew Carnegie, and others who knew and loved the man and his work.

The February number of Success Magazine opens with a remarkable series of letters entitled "The Things We Write to Her" by Richard Watson Gilder. "Where Business, Which Rules the Age, Is Not Quite Wise—As Yet," is the third installment of Charles Edward Russell's series entitled "The Power Behind the Throne." There is a timely and imaginative article by L. Brownlow, late of the Orient, entitled "Our Chance in China." E. A. ## ST. LOUIS FIRM

TO ESTABLISH BIG BRANCH IN PADUCAH AT ONCE.

Oxford Tailoring Company, Which Specializes on Popular Price, Quality Tailoring.

The Oxford Tailoring company, of St. Louis, is opening a branch store in this city. This company operates a chain of stores throughout the Mississippi valley. Attracted by Paducah's promising environment, they have leased the store room at No. 206 Broadway from Messrs Smith, which was recently vacated by the Boston Tea and Coffee company, and workmen are engaged putting it in order for them.

Mr. R. C. Mabie, president of the company, returned today from St. Louis with a stock of fabrics for the store and brings with him an expert cutter and fitter, who will remain here permanently to look after the important detail of the tailoring business.

This is a sensible innovation of the new method with branch establishments of this kind, most of whom place in charge of the store a man of experience in cutting and fitting clothes, the result of whose fits are most often misfits.

Mr. Charles Hunter, who has been connected with the company for some time, will remain in temporary management of the business until Mr. George M. Johnston can become familiar with it and practice in the duties of manager, for which office Mr. Johnston has been engaged permanently.

Mr. Johnston is favorably known in Paducah, where he has lived all his life, and by his genial personality, together with an honorable reputation as a business young man, the public is assured of courteous treatment and unflinching consideration.

The Oxford Tailoring company is organized upon modern lines for the

BOER VETERAN

RETURNS TO PADUCAH AFTER NINE YEARS.

General Ginzberg, a Boer Veteran, Finds No Modifies on Roads way.

Scarcely recognizing the city, Byron de Ginzberg, who is a veteran of the Boer war, arrived Paducah this morning from Metropolis. When he reached Paducah he was bewildered at the changes that have taken place in Paducah during nine years.

"I was in Paducah nine years ago, and in all of my travels in every state and territory I found few towns any dirtier," he said. "I remember when I arrived I took knee deep into the mud. This morning when I reached Paducah I found it one of the cleanest places on the map, and there are mighty few that I have not seen."

Baron de Ginzberg is a native of Russia, and he fought against the British in the Boer war. He was taken prisoner, but escaped and since has traveled over the world. His duties during the war were to deliver a lecture in Paducah. The proceeds from his lectures are devoted to some noble cause. He will speak in Metropolis and the funds will be used for street signs.

Attention Hardware Dealers.

On Thursday, February 10, 1910, at 11 a. m., we will offer for sale at public outcry our entire stock of hardware now in stock at one store, 303 and 307 Broadway, Paducah, Ky. The stock consists of about ten thousand dollars' worth of various hardware, materials and misc. supplies, besides a considerable assortment of general hardware. Terms of sale three and six months, to be varied by notes with approved security, and the notes to bear interest at 6 per cent per annum until paid. Stock to be sold as a whole and is open to inspection of all at any time prior to date of sale.

Stock to be removed from the building before February 17, 1910. Remember the date February 10, 1910.

White Goods Sale

It has always been our pleasure to give the ladies of Paducah and vicinity each year a feast of white goods bargains—at this time of year. A sale of everything in white that one could desire. Values unequalled in quality and low prices by any they could buy elsewhere. Each year they look forward to this event and try in all their immediate and many future needs. This year it behooves you more than ever to buy during this sale for special price concessions will be made that cannot be duplicated later. We promise you this year, a bigger selection and better values than ever. It is not necessary to say when we bought the goods and how we got them, etc.—suffice it to say we have the goods and a look will convince you. The date of our Annual Saving Sale of White will be announced in a few days. Begin today planning what you will require this spring in white goods, wash goods, hosiery, muslin underwear, embroidery and all household linens—make a list and watch for the big event.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

Federation Midwinter Meeting.
Says the Kentucky State Journal, Frankfort, of January 26.

The members of the Executive Committee and the Board of Directors of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs held two interesting meetings yesterday, one in the morning at the Public Library, and the second in the afternoon at the home of Miss Lillian Lindsay on Wapping street. Reports were read from the chairman of committees, and plans and arrangements made for the meeting of the whole Federation in May.

After the morning meeting, all the ladies went over to the New Capitol and they were enthusiastic over its beauty, and Mrs. Barnett suggested what a charming idea it would be to have tea on the Terrace, like the English, who have their afternoon teas on the Terrace of the Parliament building. The meeting of the State Federation will be held in Frankfort, May the twenty-fifth, twenty-sixth and twenty-seventh, and will be one of the most important and memorable meetings the Federation has ever held. The program was arranged in part yesterday, and includes many delightful features. The first evening there will be an address of welcome by Governor Wilson. After the response, each of the ex-presidents of the Federation will give the special feature of her administration. The second evening will be given to the report of the legislative work during the session. A reception will be given the third evening at the New Capitol. Governor and Mrs. Wilson, Lieut. Gov. and Mrs. Cox, and the state officials will be invited to receive with the officers and chairman of the State Federation.

On the twenty-sixth the Federation has been invited to an unveiling of the restored Daniel Boone statue by the Robeson House chapter of the D. A. R. The next day during the day will be given over to reports of committees and election of officers. It has been decided to use home talent in the program arranged, unless some guesting should be given by distinguished visitors to the meeting of the General Federation in Cincinnati the week preceding the state meeting here. Other arrangements will be made later, and the meeting adjourned yesterday afternoon. Several of the ladies remained over to attend the State Conference of Churches and Correction, which will begin today. Those present at the meeting yesterday were Mrs. Leach, president of the State Federation; Mrs. Barnett, Mrs. LaFare, Mrs. Hines, Mrs. Rawson, all of Louisville; Mrs. A. M. Harrison, of Lexington; Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Smith, of Richmond; Mrs. Debra Brockridge, of Lexington; Mrs. LaFare, of Harrodsburg; Mrs. Harriet and daughter Miss Helen LaFare, of Lawrenceburg; Mrs. Mitchell, of Bowling Green; Mrs. Thorton, of Owensboro; Mrs. Laura Clay, Miss Lucile Boyd, of Covington; Mrs. Minor Simpson, of Lexington; Mrs. Charles McDowell, of Danville; Mrs. John H. Castleton, of Louisville.

The selection of the right word to convey one's meaning is sometimes more important than the rules of grammar. So it appeared to the bridge policeman, who is an alert sociological student, says the New York Sun. An East Side resident of foreign birth was taken before the magistrate in one of the police courts charged with a trivial offense.

"Tell him he must not do it again. He is discharged," the magistrate said to the policeman on the bench.

"The judge says you dassent do it 'underrstand?" almost shouted the policeman to the prisoner.

"Hold on, officer, I didn't dare him to break the law again. I said 'must not'."

"That's all right, your honor. He understands what I said better'n he would 'what you said," explained the policeman. And the prisoner seemed to think so, too.

CHAPTER XIII.

BRAND, busily engaged in writing the caption for the cut that was to reveal Bartley
in his true light, was interrupted once more—this time by the entrance of the greenish faced face of the poet reporter, Powell.

"You sent for me, sir?" asked the new scribble.

"So you've covered a suicide?" said
Brand.

"Pow-wow!" eyes rolled wildly. He clapped his hands and his knees shook in his horror at what he had learned.

"Oh, yes—a terrible sight! I shall draw a cut of it, sir! It would take a Dante to write of it, th, th."

"What was this girl's name?" asked Brand in matter of fact tones.

"Madeline."

"Madeline what?"

"Her last name," the poet asked dazedly. "I guess I don't remember.
Oh, yes, it was Jenks—Madeline Jenks!" He spoke feverishly.

Brand picked up the poet's first newspaper story and began to read it.
In spite of the high pressure of events that night in the Advance office, in spite of his ever present fear that Bartley and Dupuy might in some way permeate Nolan to order the sensational story killed, this young fellow who young man found the time to bother with the fantastic young poet reporter
and his fantastic first article.

"Madeline Jenks, eh?" commented Brand, turning over the pages. "Well,
the first place you mention her name is on page 3."

He plucked off the first two pages and threw them on the floor. Powell winced painfully at the massacre of his first reportorial offspring. "Begin there," said Brand. Powell lunged downward to resume his first two pages, but Brand kicked them away from him. "Where'd she live?" he next asked.

Powell clasped his hands and gazed plaintively at the ceiling.

"Over a cheap café, sir."

"Number and street?"

"Two forty-three and a half West Pearl street."

Brand threw away two more pages, Powell watching him anxiously the while.

"Put that next. Here, Madeline Jenks," Brand began to write, "an inmate of 243 1/2 West Pearl street. What did she do?"

"She destroyed herself utterly!" the new reporter wailed.

Brand went on writing.

"Is she dead?"

"Yes, sir."

"Shot and killed herself—when?"

"Tonight at 9 o'clock."

Brand wrote on.

"Last night at 9 o'clock. Why?"

Powell answered very intensely:

"Oh, she could no longer face the ghostliness of her existence. She knew she—"

"She was weary of life in the streets."

"I don't blame her," Brand commented to himself. He turned to Powell. "There's your story. Thirty words—you had 3,000. And remember the story of the creation was told in 600 words."

Powell picked up the pages of his story which Brand had discarded and walked dejectedly away.

"Mac," Brand ordered, "here's a dance hall suicide. Put it with local breviews, will you?"

Had Brand at this moment been able to see through the wall that separated the composing room from the hall he would have witnessed a sight that would have deprived him of some of the self-possession that marked his present demeanor. A figure clad in an elaborate evening gown crept softly up the stairway, stood irresolutely at the landing and then turned into the managing editor's office. Judith Bartley probably never looked more beautiful in her life than she did that night. A dash of excitement enhanced the soft allurements of her exquisite features, and the low cut neck of her sleeveless gown completed a picture of feminine loveliness that, innocently enough on her part, was admirably adapted to the purpose Judge Bartley had in his unprincipled mind when he sent her to the Advance office. "You are my only hope," he had told her after Dupuy had at first failed to locate Nolan. "You must go and plead with Wheeler Brand or else I am ruined. Your father will be ruined altogether." At the sight of her father's emotion and yielding to the fervent pleadings of her only living parent

she had willingly consented to undertake the mission. Unpleasant though she knew it would be, she believed it her duty to stand by in his hour of dire need the father whom she loved,
the father whom she did not know.
As she entered the office and paused in conjecture as to just how she would proceed she heard footsteps hurriedly ascending the stairs, and, withdrawing into a shadow in a corner, she saw Michael Nolan and Mrs. Nolan cross the hall and disappear into the composing room.

"Thank heaven!" she murmured fervently. "They will stop this story.
Which father says is a horrible lie."
Wheeler Brand will never forget—

"Remember the story of the creation was told in 600 words."

has since said so from the depths of his soul—the shock that went through him when he saw Nolan, accompanied by his wife, making their way toward him on that memorable night.

McHenry was speaking when they entered.

"There is your first page, Brand," he was saying, "and it sends Bartley to state prison."

The managing editor gazed approximately at the appearance of the page of type and the cut in the form as it lay exposed on one of the stones under a dimmed electric light. He looked up to congratulate McHenry on the manner in which he had completed the makeup of the page when his jaw suddenly fell. His eyes took on an amazed stare. He was looking straight over the night editor's shoulder.

McHenry caught Brand's expression and whirled about. Then he, too, saw the owner of the Advance and his wife draw near. The triumphant air with which the wife and mother walked along by his side boded no good to Brand and his story.

Nolan passed in front of the form without looking at the contents at first.

"Wheeler," he said kindly, "I've been notified about this story, and I think it best that I read it carefully myself, analyze it and learn all the circumstances under which it was procured before I allow it to go to press. That is a task which cannot be done in the short time that remains before press time, so we had best let it go over until tomorrow—delay it one day. That won't hurt the story any."

Mrs. Nolan clutched at the ex-milner's arm and cried shrilly:

"Now, now, Michael, that's not your usual way to explain things to one of your employees. Order him to destroy all this miserable stuff about the judge at once. Don't hesitate like this.
Think what it means to me, to the children, to us," she pleaded.

"There, there, mother; yet keep out of this," said Nolan kindly, yet firmly.
"I'm trying to do the best I can for you. It's because of you that I'm here
now. But you see—"

Ed Dupuy burst excitedly in upon them, and as the typesetters were begining to become distracted from their work owing to the unusual situation Brand began to fear that this new intruder would prove the dual deoralizer of the entire night shift.

"Mr. Nolan," cried Dupuy, "we haven't a minute to lose! They are almost ready to go to press." He looked intently at the newspaper owner.

"Yes, quite right. We do go to press very soon," cried Brand confidently,
"and I know Michael Nolan is the man who will order it done."

"Michael," cried Mrs. Nolan at the top of her voice, which rose sharply over the din of the typesetting machines, "are you going to stand for this? Mr. Brand acts as if he owned the Advance and treats you as if you were the office boy. He thinks he's a great reformer and knows it all. We have heard the whole story of this miserable affair, both sides of it—Bar-

tley's and my own, from our own lips. Whatever defense or explanation Bartley gave you I don't know. But, so far as I am concerned, I told you the facts and the truth. You must believe it. Therefore why do you or how in heaven's name can you hesitate?"

Michael Nolan's face shone with the light of determination.

"Wheeler, my boy," he said, "I have learned much from you. I have needed contact with such a man as you. I have led a rough life for most of my career. When I rose to be chairman of the Street Railway Workers' union
I did so simply through my ruggedness of character, my ability to master men. Then I was driven out into the world, an outcast, and became a day laborer in the mines. When the day came that I owned my own mine it was again a case of fight, fight, FIGHT, for the lawless claim jumpers threatened me above ground, and the lawless floods assailed me below ground.
So in the life I led I did not get the opportunity to study or even become familiar with the important questions and the problems that confront the men that guide the policy of newspapers."

Nolan drew close to Brand and placed his hand affectionately on the young editor's shoulder.

"But you, Wheeler—you have taught me much about those big issues that I did not know, and you have shown to me the big ideas that should guide
the newspaper writer, the newspaper editor and the newspaper owner as well. You are right in this case. His voice rose to majestic heights. "Wheeler Brand, I have learned from you that the Advance is more than a newspaper. It is a great, throbbing, potent force. It is the strong arm of the Right standing against the evil arm of the Wrong. So we must not falter.
We must not delay. Show the big thieves up, Wheeler. Let the story go to press."

Nolan turned quickly away and hantened out and down into the street.

A warm glow of enthusiasm spread over the face of Wheeler Brand as he picked up a bundle of proofs.

"We'll show them up!" he cried ex-ultantly. "We'll show them up, and we'll put them down!"

He Knew Them.

Collector Lock, at a dinner in New York, praised a certain customs inspector.

"His success," said Collector Lock,
"is due to his knowledge of human nature. He is like a boy I used to know in Albany."

"This boy got vaccinated on the right arm, and the doctor gave him a red 'I've been vaccinated' ribbon to wear on his coat sleeve. But the lad proceeded to tie the ribbon on his left arm."

"Why," said the doctor, "you are putting the ribbon on the wrong arm."

"No," said the archer, "you don't know the boys at our school."—

other people have a right to our opinions, too, and I don't see why you and your family should be made to suffer on account of him as we have had to ever since you took him up."

Judith Bartley heard the stormy scene, lived a part of it herself and died in the managing editor's office.
She felt that Nolan would not let the story be used from what she had heard, and she could not suppress a pang of pain that pierced her heart at what she believed to be the fanatical vindictiveness of Wheeler Brand against her father. Yet she was a true woman, and also could not, in spite of her loyalty to her parent, avoid feeling a touch of pride at his strength of character, his determination, at the sacrifice he had made, to accomplish what he believed, even if foolishly, to be his duty.

"They don't need me," she finally muttered, and, gathering up her costly skirt, she tripped daintily across the paper strewn floor, out into the hall
and down to her carriage.

Nolan dropped his head in thought
when his wife had finished her tirade.
He paced up and down nervously.
He looked at the clock, then at the form with its accusing contents, then at Brand, then at his wife.

"I'll go and telephone Judge Bartley," put in Dupuy. "He'll be anxious."

The lawyer took himself off.

Brand saw the danger of delay. He doubted if any man would be able to successfully withstand the pressure that Bartley and Nolan's family would be able to bring to bear on the owner in another twenty-four hours.

"No, no," he exclaimed to Nolan.
"You would fail me again. I have tried to prove this judge's guilt to the people, but I fear I have only succeeded in proving it to his daughter. A day's delay would be fatal, I know.
At least Bartley could get another judge to issue an injunction against us even if he would not dare to do it himself. And there are other steps he might take."

His voice rose higher, and he worked himself into a frenzy of earnestness.

He stood before the little group gathered around the ink black form and continued his impassioned words:

"You know I thought we were going to be absolutely untroubled here. You were a free man. Poverty couldn't frighten you, and you had seen both sides of life. You promised to back me up, no matter what it cost, so long as we printed the truth, but at the first big test you fell me."

Mrs. Nolan was on the point of becoming hysterical in her agitation.

"Michael, Michael!" she began.

"There, mother, you go home with Sylvester. He's waiting outside for you. After all, this is a man's job we've got here. I'm the head of the family, and I will settle this matter
in my own way," he said sternly.

"You must not attempt further to interfere."

He led her out of the room.

Brand spoke to McHenry.

"Did you hear, Mac?" he asked. "He won't decide to run it."

"It's tough, old man—it's tough."

"This is such a live thing I don't see how I can kill it," the managing editor said, rubbing his hand over the face of the form.

"That's the best first page ever made up in America," said McHenry, with justifiable professional pride.

Brand was lucubrolable.

"I've been working ten years for just this thing," he said, "something so plain that even children would see what the big thieves are doing."

"You go home!" Brand suddenly ordered McHenry.

"What?" was the surprised exclaima-tion.

"I said go home!"

Brand's face was beginning to twitch nervously. He stood in the middle of the composing room, under the flooding white glare from a sixty-four candle power electric light, and clenched and unclenched his hands, not during to look McHenry squarely in the face.
The night editor began to guess what was passing through Brand's mind.

"Yes, but," he began to protest—
"but—"

Brand cut him short, saying agitat-edly:

"I am still managing editor."

McHenry now realized plainly that the intensely earnest Brand had decided to run the story that very night regardless of Nolan's attitude. It would be an easy matter, as Nolan, of course, would not remain at the office much longer. And McHenry well knew that such a set would not only bring about Brand's disengagement from the Advance, but that it would as well injure his reputation in other newspaper offices, where obedience to one's superior, as in any well regulated organization, is a man's first duty under all circumstances.

"Why, man," he exclaimed questioningly, "you're surely not going to run
this story?"

Before Brand could give an answer to this last question, even if he had intended to do so, Nolan broke in on the pair.

"Mr. Nolan," began Brand, "you

have heard the whole story of this
miserable affair, both sides of it—Bar-
tley's and my own, from our own

Mr. Fred McCreery, who has been secretary-treasurer, returned this morning from the meeting. Mr. McCreery declined to run for re-election or permit his name to be used, and Mr. Frank Milliken was elected to succeed him. Mr. Quincy P. Wallace was re-elected president of the joint board. In recognition of the splendid work that has been done by Mr. McCreery while an officer of the board, he was given a handsome gold ring with the emblem of the Knights of Columbus and engraved appropriately. The gift was much appreciated.

The board is in annual session, and is now in the midst of the business. A full representation is present, including President M. S. Ryan, of Kansas City. The new officers are: Quincy P. Wallace, chairman; D. L. Sandburn, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, vice chairman, and Frank Milliken, secretary-treasurer. The board will be in session some time.

Persons.
George Richardson, of the car department, who was injured yesterday afternoon by a door falling and striking him on the head, was resting easy today. A painful scalp wound was made, but it is thought he will be out soon unless complications develop.
Joel Murphy, colored, who was shot in the head, is still alive and was resting well today.
W. L. Lightfoot, assistant general passenger agent for the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad, was in the city today on business.

It L. Baskett, commercial agent of the Cumberland gap dispatch, was in the city today calling on the trade.

A. D. Knox, traveling freight agent of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad, was in the city today.
Engineer William O. Burch, of the Calumet run, is ill at his home on Madison street.

Best Vandergriff of the car department, is ill.
Harry Judd, the patternmaker, has returned to the hospital as his condition has become worse although not serious.

J. F. Rapp, boiler inspector, from Chicago, was in the city on an inspection today.
Ike Altmann, who received a scalp wound last week, is unimproved as complications have developed.
James Eddy, a machinist, is at the Riverside hospital, after an operation. Owing to a depression it was necessary to remove part of the frontal bone. His condition is improved.
General Foreman James Hotell is still unable to be on duty. He was quite ill today.

PLUMBER BILL

WILL REQUIRE AN EXAMINING BOARD IN EACH CITY.

All Plumbers Will Be Required to Register Before Beginning Work.

An examining board for plumbers will be established in all First Second and Third class cities in Kentucky provided a proposed bill is passed by the general assembly. The bill will be introduced by Lexington officials. The bill is for the purpose of requiring plumbers to register and before doing so they must undergo an examination before the board which will be composed of four members in each city. The proposed bill prescribed that the board shall be paid in fees, not to exceed 50 percent of the cost of the examination. The creation of the board will not entail any expense on the city, as the expense will be borne by the plumbers taking the examination.

The bill has been recommended by the health department of Lexington, which seeks to prevent incompetent plumbers from working in cities.

FIVE RUNS

ANSWERED BY FIRE DEPARTMENT IN A DAY.

No Serious Injuries Resulted, Though Some Looked Extremely Dangerous.

A defective flue resulted in the roof of a house at the northwest corner of Eighth and Ohio streets catching fire last night at 8:30 o'clock. The fire was burning briskly in the attic when the firemen reached the house, but the flames were quenched quickly. The loss will amount to about $150. The house was occupied by negroes. These companies

No. 1 and 4 and truck company No. 4 responded to the alarm.

Yesterday afternoon a grass fire caught some fencing at 817 North Sixth street. Hose company No. 3 and truck company No. 4 answered the alarm. No damage resulted.

A stable belonging to C. W. Morrison at 1101 North Twelfth street, caught fire, but was discovered before it had gained headway. Hose company No. 3 made a quick run and stopped the blaze before it did much damage.

Five runs were answered by the fire department which is the largest number of runs made by the department this year. All of the fires were smothered quickly, and if the good record is kept up 1910 will be a banner year for Paducah.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Board of Public Works will receive bids for furnishing the city of Paducah gravel for the repairs of streets or for any other work that they may desire as follows:
1. To furnish gravel for the territory north of Broadway to the city limits.
2. To furnish gravel for the territory south of Broadway to the city limits.

3. To furnish to any territory within the city limits.

The Board of Public Works will receive bids on the above three propositions, and reserve the right to reject any and all bids. The contractor must specify the price per cubic yard for gravel delivered in the above territories on each or all three propositions, and each bid must be accompanied with a certified check for $50.00 payable to the City of Paducah, which will be forfeited to the city upon failure of the successful bidder to enter into contract as per his bid.

Sealed proposals will be received at office of Board of Public Works until 9 o'clock p. m. Tuesday, Feb. 1, 1910.

S.S.S. NATURE'S CURE FOR BLOOD POISON

Not only its proven ability to cure, but its absolute safety as a remedy has made S.S.S. the most desirable of all medicines for the treatment of Contagious Blood Poison. S.S.S. is made entirely of roots, herbs and bark of the forest and fields. It does not contain a particle of mercury, potash or any other harmful mineral to injure the delicate parts of the system, impair the digestion, corrode and irritate the lining of the stomach, or in any other way injure the health. It is Nature's blood purifier, harmless in its action and certain in its good results. S.S.S. removes the poison from the circulation, enriches the blood, and safely and surely cures Contagious Blood Poison. It builds up and strengthens the system by its fine tonic effects and leaves the patient not only cured of the disease, but stronger and in better health in every way. If you are suffering with Contagious Blood Poison S.S.S. is your most certain reliance; an honest medicine, and because of its vegetable purity, a safe treatment for any one. We have a special book on home treatment which explains fully the different stages of the disease, also suggestions that will be helpful to you in the treatment of your case. We will be glad to send this book together with any medical advice desired, free to all who write.

EVOLUTION IN DRESS WOULD PEZZLE DARWIN'S GENIUS.

Women Wore First Skirts and Old Egyptian Drawings Show Men With Nothing But Breasts and Cloths.

EARLY WOMEN THE SAME

The study of the evolution of dress, above all Greek dress, might paralyze the genius of a Darwin. Just when a man thinks that he is, at last, on the level of scientific opinion he finds that he has drifted tongueless as far as it, or far away to the left or right. The subject is so difficult because, naturally, we have no ancient costumes before us in linen or wool, while the early artists who depicted them are not always trustworthy persons. They have a strong tendency, from the dateless period of the artists contemporary with the mammoth and the reindeer in France to the bushmen in South Africa, to draw men with wasps' waists, and to represent people as naked who were certainly clothed. Nobody was likely to go naked in a climate that suited the mammoth and reindeer, especially if he was well supplied with bone needles to sew his raiment, as he certainly was. Yet paleolithic man usually drew his species without a stitch of a cloth. But yesterday were his paintings on rock walls discovered, in which his women wear skirts with a half moon cut out at the lower end to give play to the ankles.

Decorum or Decoration?
It is difficult to say whether, in warm climates, dress was invented for the sake of decorum or of decoration. We take the case of Egypt the old Egyptian paintings show that for men the ordinary loin cloth was usually sufficient. If we pass from Egypt to create the art of the mycenaean white men who founded and achieved (about 2500-1200 B. C.) its civilization shows in early periods men in loin cloths, perhaps first worn by them in Northern Africa. The women were originally no better clad. But on one side the ladies developed the loin cloth into a "belted panther or polonaise" without any skirt or bodice (as also did the men), and then the women went on lengthening the panther by overlapping additions till they had a "reemphoid skirt," like a fanned skirt in outward appearance, and finally fashion revealed in skirts with regular flounces and low bodices above.

Any fair minded, intelligent person will emphatically answer NO! Such a medicine is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, and its ever increasing popularity is due to actual merit alone.

"I don't think the book will dramatize well."
"Why not?"
"The hero has a good many mental struggles, but then kind of comical don't go well on the stage."
—Pittsburgh Post

The Evening Sun—10c a Week.

When Men Wore Skirts.

Ladies even forsook sandals and wore hetties. In fact, some of them are known as "les Parisiennes," very gay little persons of about 1600 B. C. The men, on the other hand, clung to their loin cloths, or to baggy short skirts like loose knickerbockers, or wore tight, brief bathing drawers embroidered or embossed, and only wore long robes on Sunday, or at least, when present at religious functions. The one fashion that the ancient Cretan women never adopted was the familiar Greek peplos, so graceful in its drapery, which has no "body" or bodice, no separate skirt. But is, in fact, no more than a square woolen blanket folded (in a way which I do not understand) and taken up around the waist by a girdle. It was pinned up by safety pins or fibulae over each shoulder, and as much of it was pulled up through the girdle to find over it, graceful folds as the wearer pleased. The dress depended for its effect, and indeed, for its permanence above the shoulders, on three safety pins. If one of these ceased to be "safe" down came the dress. When "The Tale of Troy" was acted many years ago by the ladies whom Sir Fredrick Leighton directed, the pins caused great searching of hearts. However, they never failed to do their duty.

What Homer Describes.
His fashion, none the Cretan ladies of 2500-1100 B. C. never evolved and no safety pins are found in the older sites of Cretan civilization. They came in at the end of that period. As they are also found far away in the north in Bosnia and Austria and all across Eastern Central Europe, it is probable that they were brought south from these quarters by the prehistoric ancestors of the Greeks, the Achaeans, Dorians and so forth. The women would wear the peplos, the men a belted smock or chiton, with a cloak over it, also fastened with a safety pin, in cold weather.

We have a flower a full description of the smock, cloak and elaborate gold safety pin of Odysseus, and his swineherd belts his smock before he goes on a journey. This is the dress that Homer describes. In a war man put his corselet on over his chiton, of which the tale must have hung down below it. Obviously the dress is that of a climate too cold to

Woman's Tonic

When you're tired and nervous, worn out and weak, you need a good tonic. You need a strength-giving, invigorating medicine. Naturally, you want something of known merit—a standard preparation. Try Cardui, the popular medicine for women. This preparation has been successfully used, by thousands of women, for more than half a century. Letters come to us daily, telling of the benefit and relief Cardui has given. These letters recommend Cardui for headache, dizziness, fainting, pains in the side or limbs, and for all those troubles from which only women suffer.

Note this letter from Mrs. R. C. Berry, 124 N. Berke St., Kansas City, Kans. She writes: "I am more than pleased with the results obtained from Cardui. I have taken 5 bottles and am in much better health than ever before. I was troubled with female disorders and suffered so much that I could not be left alone. I found relief in Cardui and keep it in the house all the time."

Cardui is a purely vegetable preparation, scientifically prepared and consisting only of harmless ingredients. It's a safe, reliable medicine. Try Cardui. It's the tonic you need. For sale at all druggists.

SUPPOSE THAT THESE WERE YOUR CHILDREN?

I sat down at the big table with the governor at my right, twined Judge Lindsey, the mayor at my left, and the president of the board of supervisors and Police Commissioner Wilson at either end of the table. The ministers seated themselves in the chairs about the room. (We allowed no newspaper reporters in, because I knew what sort of vile and unprintable testimony was coming.) Alcey, the boy who was rounding up witnesses for me, sat in his first row.

One by one, as the boys came, I impressed upon them the necessity of telling the truth, encouraging them to talk, and tried to put them at their ease. I started each by asking him how often he had been in jail, what he had seen there, and so forth. Then I got back and let him tell his story.

And the things they told would raise your hair. I saw the blushes rise to the foreheads of some of the ministers at the first details. As we went on, the perspiration stood on their faces. Some sat pale, staring appalled at these frolicked youngsters from whose little lips, in a sort of infantile eagerness to tell all they knew, there came stories of bestiality that were the more horrible because they were so innocently, so boldly, given. It was enough, to make a man weep; and indeed tears of compassionate shame came to the eyes of more than one father there as he listened. One boy broke down and cried when he told of the vile indecencies that had been committed upon him by the older criminals; and I saw the muscles working in the clenched jaws of some of our "investigating committee"—saw them swallowing the lump in the throat—saw them looking down at the floor blinking, afraid of losing their self-control. The police commissioner made the mistake of cross-examining the first boy, but the frank answer he got only exposed worse matters. The boys came and came, till at last a Catholic priest, Father O'Ryan, cried out, "My God! I have had enough!" Gov. Peabody said harshly, "I never knew there was such immorality in the world!" Some one else put in, "It's awful—awful!" in a half groan.

"Gentlemen," I said, "there have been over two thousand Denver boys put through those jails and those conditions in the last five years. Do you think it should go on any longer?"

Gov. Peabody rose, "No," he said, "no. Never in my life have I heard of so much rot—corruption—vileness—as I've heard today from the mouths of these babies. I want to tell you that nothing I can do in my administration can be of more importance—nothing I can do will I do more gladly than sign those bills that Judge Lindsey is trying to get through the legislature to do away with these terrible conditions. And if," he said, turning to the police commissioner, "Judge Lindsey is 'crazy,' I want my name written under his, among the crazy people. And if anyone says these boys are 'larks,' that man is a liar himself!"

Cotton Underclothes Best for Winter Wear.

Should one wear wool, cotton or linen next to the skin? Wool has its fanatics, to whom discarding their flannel or melino vest or drawers would seem like risking their lives. But the opinion of physicians has changed notably in recent years, and now many, if not most of them, favor cotton or linen next the skin.

The reason is that wool absorbs perspiration and retains it; it absorbs it with difficulty at first, but renders it to the surrounding air with even greater difficulty. Cotton, on the other hand, asks only an opportunity to dry, which it does as rapidly as possible.

The best plan in cold weather is to wear cotton, or linen, if you can afford it, next the skin, with wool outer clothing. The wool excludes moisture and cold while the cotton absorbs the perspiration quickly and dries even more quickly, and this without chilling the body if the latter have an outer covering of wool.

In this climate especially, where houses and offices are generally overheated in winter, and where, consequently, the transition from indoors to outdoors is attended by a far greater change in temperature than in milder climates, where the houses are not kept so hot as in America, it is better to wear cotton or linen underclothes and to rely upon heavy outer garments to resist the cold of the wintry air.

Foley's Kidney Remedy will cure any case of kidney or bladder trouble that is not beyond the reach of medicine. It invigorates the entire system and strengthens the kidneys so they eliminate the impurities from the blood. Backache, rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles are all cured by this great medicine. # GOOD, HONEST, SQUARE-DEAL Medicines like those of Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, warrant their makers in printing their every ingredient, which they do, upon their outside wrappers, verifying the correctness of the same under oath. This open publicity places these medicines in a class all by themselves. Furthermore, it warrants physicians in prescribing them largely as they do in their worst cases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

Is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach and bowels, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), liver, bowels (as mucous diarrhea), or other organs.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is advised for the cure of one class of diseases only—those peculiar weaknesses, derangements and irregularities peculiar to women. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nerve.

For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulae of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American, medicinal, forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum. Don't do it.

CANADIAN TRADE GROWING FACTOR

NEARLY ALL EXPORTS AND IM-PORTS INCREASE.

Figures of the Bureau of Statistics, Department of Commerce and Labor.

MANY ARTICLES OF BARTER

Washington, Jan. 27. (Special.)— Trade between Canada and the United States made its highest record in the calendar year just ended, and has more than doubled in the last ten years. In no earlier year have either imports from, or exports to that country equaled the record of 1909. Imports from Canada have increased from $5½ million dollars in 1899 to approximately $8 million in 1909, and exports thereto, from $6 million to about 190 million, the estimate for 1909 being based upon official figures of eleven months, recently presented by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor.

No other important country takes as large a share of its imports from the United States as does Canada.
The official figures of that government show that of its total imports in the fiscal year of 1909, 60.4 per cent were from the United States, compared with 46.98 per cent in 1889.

The ten largest items imported from Canada in the calendar year 1909, so far as shown by the monthly statements of the bureau of statistics, are: Lumber, 18 million dollars;
copper pigs, each, 4 million dollars;
pulp, nearly 4 million; hides of cattle, 3½ million; furs and fur skins, undressed, 1½ million; tea, 1 million; copper ore and matte, 900
thousand dollars; distilled spirits, 725 thousand; and horses, 700 thousand dollars. The ten leading articles exported to the Dominion were,
in the same year, bituminous coal,
17 million dollars; anthracite coal,
14 million; cotton, 5 million; fruits, and nuts, 5 million; boards, etc., 4 million; books, maps, etc., 2 million;
agricultural implements, nearly 2
million, and automobiles and wheat,
each about 2½ million.

Nearly all important articles of exportation to Canada have increased when compared with 1908 or with 1899, notable exceptions with respect to a ten-year comparison being, however, locomotives, wheat, wheat flour, leather, steel rails and cotton manufactures.

Many other articles have increased in value of exports to Canada in the decade. Agricultural implements, from less than 2 million dollars in 1899 to nearly 3 million in 1909;
scientific instruments from less than a half million dollars in 1899 to practically 3 million in 1909; furs
and fur skins, from a half million to over 2 million dollars; builders' hardware, from less than 1 million to over 2 million dollars; sewing machines, from one-fifth million dollars in 1899 to about double that sum in 1909; boots and shoes, from less than a half million to over 1 million dollars; boards, deals and planks, from 1½ million dollars to nearly 4 million; lumber, from less than 1½ million dollars to over 18 million dollars. It is proper to add that in the above statements of distribution of exports by articles the figures, while credited to Canada, include small amounts of merchandise exported to Newfoundland and Labrador, though the grand totals of both imports and exports relate exclusively to Canada.

Simple Remedy for LaGrippe.
LaGrippe coughs are dangerous,
as they frequently develop into pneumonia. Foley's Honey and Tar not only stops the cough, but heals serious results need be feared. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no harmful drugs and is in a yellow package. Gilbert's drug store.

An Observant Child.
Little Adelaide was inclined to be cowardly. Her father found that sympathy only increased this unfortunate tendency, and decided to have a serious talk with his little daughter on the subject of her foolish fears.

"Papa," she ventured, at the close of the lecture, "when you see a cow, aren't you afraid?"

"Why, certainly not, Adelaide.

Why should I be?"

"Well, when you see a dog, aren't you afraid then?"

"No, indeed!" with marked emphasis on the "no."

"Aren't you afraid when it thunders, papa?"

"Why, no," and he laughed at the thought and added, "Oh, you silly child!"

"Papa," and Adelaide came closer and looked into her parent's eye,
"aren't you afraid of nothing in the world but just mamma?"—Success Magazine.

"So you are in favor of protecting water power?" said the forestry expert. "I am," answered Mr. Dustin Stax. "A man doesn't appreciate the power there is in water till he has had as much to do with the stock market as I have."—Washington

EQUITABLE-STANDARD-POLICY

DO you know that THE EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES issues a policy which, at maturity, instead of being paid to the beneficiary in one lump sum, provides a monthly income
for life? It is called a LIFE INCOME POLICY, and is well worth investigation.

Do you know that the Society has introduced a new policy of this kind, which provides a life-income not only for a man's wife or daughter, in the event of his death, but for his own support in after life, if he lives?

It works either way. It will protect you if you live. It protects your wife if you die. And if you both live it protects you both.

It will some day be discovered that the real reason for the present crisis
in our affairs is caused by the depletion of young men and women to get along in the world without producing anything, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. The country has been depopulated and the cities flooded with young people whose ambition it is to make a living with their brains rather than with their hands. Every city has an army of clerks, salesgirls, waitresses, stenographers, manicures
and what not, who produce absolutely nothing, and not a single penny to the wealth of the community in which they live, and all this vast and rapidly growing army has to be fed and clothed. Year after year the country has yielded a toll of sugared, healthful youth to the city which has become absolutely productive. The demand for food products in the cities fixes the price for the same in the country. That demand has finally exceeded the supply and the farmer is waxing rich.

Wealth comes from the ground.

Let our big urban population diminish and get back to the land where men and women can become real producers of something that adds to the wealth of the world. Abundant opportunity exists in all parts of the United States for the adoption of such a course.

DUMPING GROUND OF EUROPE.

Statistics Demonstrate Great Increase of Crime From Immigration.
If we estimate the immigrants in country in 1904 to be those who had arrived since 1874 a period of 30 years only, we find that they numbered probably about twelve and one-half millions. From 1901 to and including 1908, four and a quarter millions were added. If the increase in alien criminals was in proportion to the added immigrants there should have been about one-third more found in penal institutions in 1908 than in 1901, but the figures show the actual increase of those incarcerated for "grave" offenses—that is, tau-der, robbery, burglary and the like—was almost 99 per cent.

In other words, the four years from 1904 to 1908 indicate an increase of practically 100 per cent of grave crimes committed by alien criminals, and this does not include the many immigrant criminals who have suffered death either by due process of law or at the hands of others, nor the undiscovered number still free of the law against whom must be charged some at least of the horrible and heinous crimes which have blackened the records of the years since 1901.

These are facts and figures, not theory, and no argument can gainway therein. Unless we guard ourselves with greater care than at present,

we shall become in truth "the dumping ground of Europe."—December

It is a dangerous thing to take a cough medicine containing opiates that merely stifle your cough instead of curing it. Foley's Honey and Tar loosens and cures the cough and expels the poisonous germs, thus preventing pneumonia and consumption. Refuse substitutes and take only the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package. Gilbert's
